Volume 10 Number 1

Spring 1987

The Dean's Corner

April 1, 1987

Dear alumni and friends,

Once again you and the other graduates of the Law School have set a record in financial support for your school. The totals are now in for the 1986 fundraising year. Our receipts exceeded, for the first year ever, one million dollars!

Of the $1,004,000 total, some $830,000 was earmarked by contributors for the new law building, as many of you paid in full your pledges to that project. An additional $174,000 was designated for the Annual Fund, and will be used for research, scholarships, and support of student and faculty activities during 1987.

The 1986 total is extraordinary, and represents nearly a 50 percent increase over the 1985 total of $674,000. All of the faculty and students join me in expressing our sincere thanks for this tremendous showing of support.

Since many of you have given generously to the new law building, I would like to update you on its construction. The total cost of the project is budgeted at $17.5 million, which will include not only the construction contract, but also the necessary furniture, fixtures, equipment and landscaping.

Private contributions by our alumni and friends will make up $2.6 million of the project cost, and will allow us to have a working environment that is first-rate in every way. For example, we will be able to purchase new furniture, and will need to move very little of our present furniture, which is in quite shabby condition, from Tate Hall to the new building. We will also have a fine computer system, excellent trial practice and moot court facilities, and all of the physical ingredients needed to support our program.

Now let me turn to a brief progress report on the building. As this is being written, concrete is being poured for the walls of the subplaza level. The building has four levels, three above the grade line or plaza and one below grade. (There is actually a sub-subplaza-level room at the northwest corner of the building, but it is strictly for equipment and utility access.) The subplaza level will contain all of the classrooms, the student lounge and locker areas, offices for the student organizations, and the lowest level of the law library, which will be used primarily for storage.

The classrooms will have slightly sloping tiers of seats, and the concrete for the tiers will be poured soon. In addition, concrete columns that will support the plaza level are being poured.

The entire building is supported by these concrete columns, which are spaced on a grid at 27-foot intervals on all levels. The columns are reinforced by steel. First the steel reinforcing rods are erected and tied together. Then a cylindrical form, which looks much like the cardboard tube from a roll of paper towels, is dropped over the reinforcing and supported by temporary braces. Next, concrete is poured into the tube. When it has hardened, the tube is unwrapped, leaving the finished column in place.

If you are in or near Columbia, please drop by to visit me and view the progress of the construction. I think you'll find it fascinating. At the northwest corner of the site is a sample of the brick facing that will be used on the building. It closely matches the color of Tate Hall and Jesse Hall. Thus the new law building will form an architectural unity with these existing "red campus" buildings.

We plan to move into the new building in the summer of 1988. Heavy rains last fall placed the project a few weeks behind schedule, but the contractor expects to make up most of this time. The winter weather was excellent, and only a few days were lost due to snow. By next winter, of course, the project will be under roof and the weather will no longer present a serious hazard.

If all goes well, we expect to have a dedication ceremony for the building in August of 1988, just prior to the beginning of the fall semester. Thus, our present first-year students will be able to spend their third year in the new building, and those who enter in the fall of 1987 will spend two years there.

I hope you'll mark your calendar tentatively for the last week in August, 1988, and plan to be present for the building dedication. I believe you'll be pleased and excited to see how your contributions have made such a fine facility possible.

UMC Law Alumni

Esslie R. Morrison ('25) was 85 years of age on Feb. 15, 1987. He still is enjoying life regardless of osteoarthritis. He gives his regards to all of the remaining graduates of the class of 1925.

L. F. Cottey ('31) writes that he is "old enough to die - feels like I had, about nine days ago - but I've still got strength enough to lift one more glass of Christmas cheer to all who still remember the famous class of 1931. Yes, Virginia, there really was a class of 1931."

W. Oliver Rasch ('36) has received a Spurgeon Smithson Award from the Missouri Bar Foundation. The editorial board of the Journal of the Missouri Bar created the W. Oliver Rasch Award to recognize outstanding substantive articles appearing in the journal. The award carries with it a cash stipend from the Missouri Bar Foundation. It is named after Rasch for his long-time membership and former chairmanship of the editorial board.

Herbert S. Brown ('38) retired Dec. 31, 1986, after 12 years as associate circuit judge of Grundy County, and does not plan to re-enter law practice, but will travel, golf and quail hunt. He hopes to see all his classmates at the 50th reunion of the class of 1938 in 1988.

Alan Ford Royer ('39) retired from Lockheed Aircraft, Burbank, Calif. in June 1971, and moved to a small town in the Sierra Foothills. He keeps busy with letters to the editor, being a courtroom buff and doing volunteer projects.

Joseph W. Hardy ('41) is spending his winters in Brownsville, Texas, and primarily Tampico, Old Mexico area, which is a commercial, oil and recreational area. His summers are spent in Missouri.

Charles J. McMullin ('41) announces that his son, James F. McMullin, is now associated with him under the name of McMullin and McMullin, 930 Marquette Building, St. Louis, Mo. 63102. James is a recent graduate of Washburn University Law School and has a University of Missouri-Columbia undergraduate degree.

William T. Powers Jr. ('48) retired in 1982 after 20 years as trial attorney for the Missouri State Highway Commission. He now is practicing part-time as litigation attorney for a local adjusting firm. He says he appreciates having had the opportunity to attend Law School and is proud to be a Missouri lawyer. He has practiced for 37 "enjoyable" years.

James P. Aylward Jr. ('49) has been reappointed to another four-year term as public administrator of Jackson County ending Dec. 31, 1990, by the Jackson County Circuit Court.

Bruce A. Ring ('51) retired as chief counsel of the Highway and Transportation Commission Nov. 1, 1986. His new mailing address is 1602 W. Main St., Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

Fred L. Hall ('58), David W. Ansley ('73), Lynn C. Rogers ('78), James B. Condry ('79) and D. Patrick Sweeney ('83) are members of the firm of Hall, Ansley, Carmichael and Gardner in Springfield, Mo., which was formed Aug. 1, 1986.

Joseph E. Healey ('60), senior project manager for Amoco Corp., has assumed the duties of president of the Industrial Development Research Council.

James N. Foley ('62) has been elected associate circuit judge of Macon County after serving 23 years as prosecuting attorney.

Col. Paul J. "Jack" Rice ('62) is starting on his second year as Commandant of the Judge Advocate General's School in Charlottesville, Va. He is looking for Missouri lawyers who used to be in the Army JAG Corps and are interested in receiving the Law School's Alumni Newsletter.

Bill J. Evans ('66) has become "of counsel" with the firm Waaler & Evans of Champaign, IL as of Dec. 31, 1985.

David C. Zucker ('71) is the Gilbert A. Cuneo Professor of Government Contract Law and chief of the Contract Law Division at the U.S. Army's Law School in Charlottesville, Va.

Ted D. Ayres ('72) became general counsel to the Kansas State Board of Regents Aug. 1, 1986. In this role, he will provide legal assistance to the University of Kansas, Kansas State University, Fort Hayes State University, Emporia State University, Wichita State University, Pittsburgh State University and Kansas Technical Institute in Salina. His home address is 2214 Southwest Brookfield St., Topeka, Kan., 66614-4236. His home telephone number is (913) 272-5696.

John Howe ('72) has been appointed bar counsel of the state of Nevada by the Board of Governors of the Nevada Bar Association. He served as staff counsel for the Missouri Bar Association for the past eight years. The bar counsel is primarily responsible for the investigation and prosecution of disciplinary actions against attorneys, the investigation of petitions for reinstatement and for representing the state bar in several other areas of admissions and ethics. Howe is a member of the Missouri Bar Association, the Pettis County Bar Association, vice president of the Sacred Heart Foundation, chairman of the Sacred Heart Administration Commission and a Little League baseball coach. He is married to Kathleen Loftus Howe and has three children; Jennifer, 13; John Jr., 9; and Julie, 4.

Col. Wendell R. Gideon ('72) has retired from the Army JAG Corps and is now employed with the State of Missouri Department of Social Services, Division of Legal Services.

Douglas S. Lang ('72) has been elected chairman of the board of directors for the Dallas Bar Association.

Jack L. Simmons ('73) has moved to Chicago to manage the corporate tax department of R. R. Donnelley and Sons. Donnelley is the largest commercial printer in the United States. Prior to taking this position, he was assistant treasurer of Monsanto Company in St. Louis.

Richard L. Tiemeyer ('73) has been named chief counsel for the Highway and Transportation Commission.

Timothy C. Harlan ('74) of Columbia has a practice limited to social security liability at the administrative and federal court levels.

Charles R. Hunt ('75) transferred in August, 1986 from the position of officer-in-charge of the Legal Service Office Detachment North Island, Coronado, Calif., to his current position as executive officer of the Naval Legal Service Office in Yokosuka, Japan. He received a masters of law degree from the University of San Diego Law School in May, 1986.

Elizabeth Lang-Miers ('75) has been elected secretary-treasurer and member of the board of directors of the Dallas Bar Association.

W. Dudley McCarter ('75) received the W. Oliver Rasch Award during the annual meeting of the Missouri Bar. The award was created by the editorial board of the Journal of the Missouri Bar to recognize outstanding substantive articles appearing in the journal. McCarter is president of the St. Louis County Bar Association and is a member of the law firm of Suelthaus, Kaplan, Cunningham, Yates, Fitzsimmons and Wright, P.C. in Clayton, Mo.

Michele Kaido Schwent ('77) and Ted Guberman have formed a partnership for the practice of law known as Guberman and Schwent. The new office address is 1401 Truman Blvd., P.O. Box 607, Festus, Mo., 63028. The new telephone number is (314) 937-4994.

C. K. "Chip" Casteel ('78), formerly counsel to Gov. Christopher S. Bond (1981-85), has been senior attorney for the Southwest Division of MCI Telecommunications Corp. in St. Louis since February 1985.

Bill Gresham ('78) is living in Poplar Bluff, Mo., with his wife, Jan, and their three children: Lisa, 14; Laura, 12; and Willie, 7. He is vice president and trust officer of Mercantile Bank of Poplar Bluff. He is regional trust officer for Mercantile Bank N.A. covering seven southeastern-most banks of the Mercantile system.

St. Louis Bar Foundation Scholarships

The St. Louis Bar Foundation has re-established its scholarship fund to be disseminated to students on the basis of need. This is an on-going gift from the St. Louis Bar Foundation. The Law School appreciates its continued support.

Faculty-Alumni Awards

Two University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law faculty members and one alumnus were honored at the Mizzou Alumni Association's 19th annual awards banquet.

Grant S. Nelson, Enoch H. Crowder Professor of Law, was presented the Distinguished Faculty Award, the Association's most prestigious faculty recognition. An expert in real estate and real estate finance law, he joined the law faculty in 1967. Phi Alpha Delta, a national legal fraternity, has named him the School of Law's Outstanding Professor three times. In 1978, Nelson received a Distinguished Service Award from the Law Alumni Organization and a Faculty-Alumni Award. He has published extensively in the areas of remedies and real estate finance and is the co-author of three leading case and textbooks in these fields.

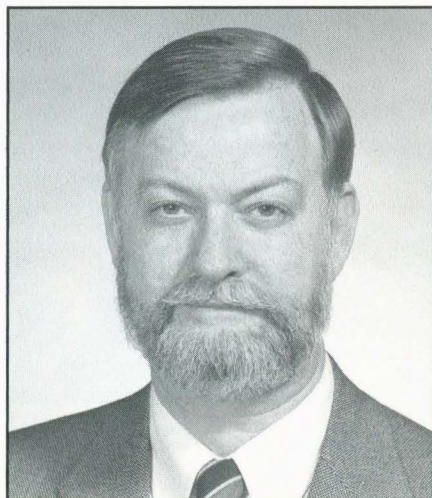

James E. Westbrook was selected to receive a Faculty-Alumni Award based on accomplishments in the legal profession and his service to the University. Westbrook, the Earl F. Nelson Professor of Law, first joined the Law Faculty in 1965. From 1976-1980 he served as dean of the University of Oklahoma College of Law. He served as interim dean of the Law School from 1981-82. He teaches government law, arbitration and labor problems, conflicts of law and a seminar in local government problems. He is a labor arbitrator on the panel of arbitration maintained by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Services as well as a member of the National Academy of Arbitration.

Robert C. Smith Jr., senior partner in the Columbia law firm of Smith, Lewis and Beckett, also was honored with a Faculty-Alumni Award. Smith received an A.B. in 1947 and a J.D. in 1949 from the University of Missouri. A former state representative and Columbia mayor, he is on the Board of Trustees of the Law School Foundation and a member of the Tiger Scholarship Fund.

Mizzou Law Grads

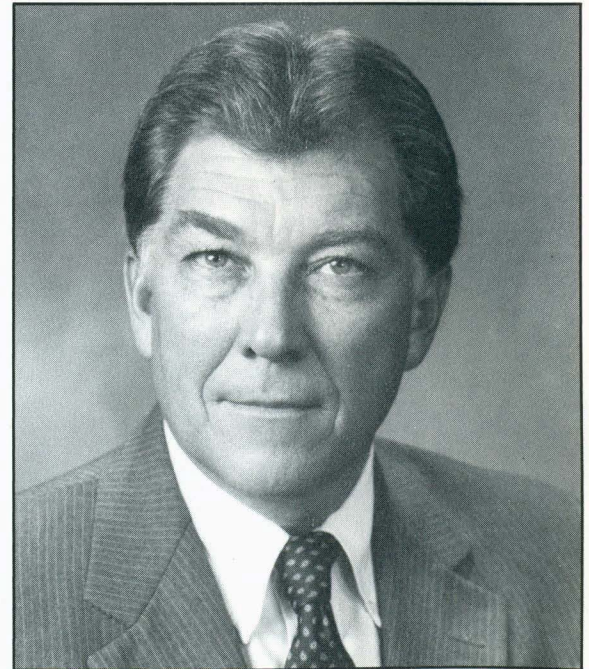

John M. Gibson

School of Law graduates are continuing a tradition of outstanding service and leadership in the legal community - the three most recent Missouri Bar presidents have been School of Law alumni, and a fourth will serve during 1988-89.

John M. Gibson, of Kansas City, Mo., was elected president at the Missouri Bar's annual meeting in November. Gibson, president of the firm of Campbell, Morgan and Gibson, received his law degree in 1965. Before entering private practice, he served with the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General Corps and as assistant city counselor for the city of Independence, Mo. Gibson is now on the board of directors of United Missouri BancShares bank holding company and the United Missouri City Bank. He also serves on the executive committee of the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association.

Immediate Past President Robert M. Clayton II of Hannibal, partner in the firm of Clayton and Stine, graduated from the School of Law in 1965. He is the current chairman of the Mississippi River Parkway Commission of Missouri, and also has held leadership roles in the 10th Judicial Circuit Bar Association, the Missouri Municipal Attorneys Association, and the Missouri Association of Trial Attorneys. Clayton was city attorney for Hannibal from 1969-1977.

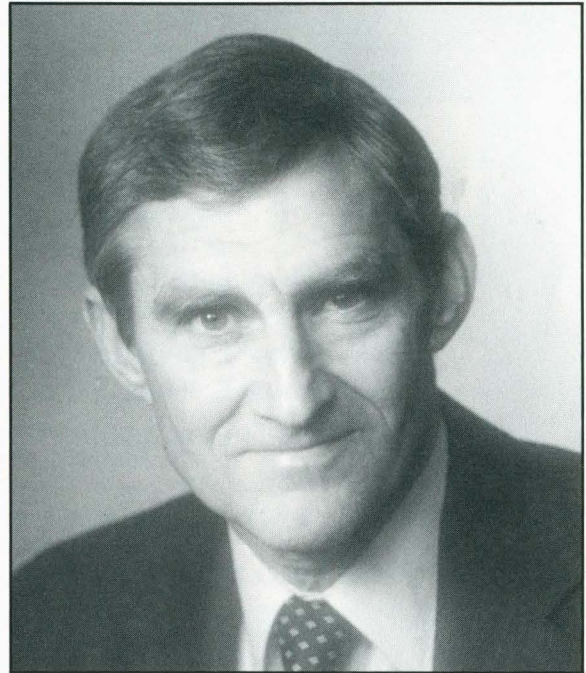

Robert M. Clayton III

Serve as Bar Leaders

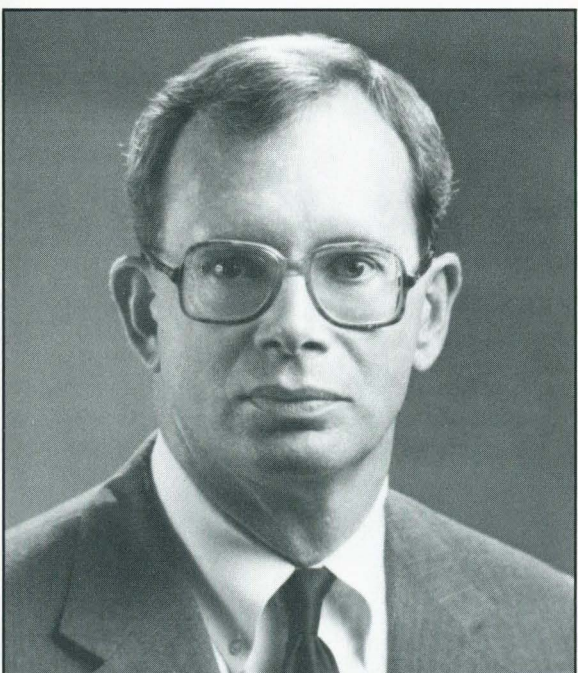

John Fox Arnold of Webster Groves, Mo., a partner in the St. Louis firm of Lashly, Baer and Hamel, served as Missouri Bar president in 1984-85. In addition to his service to the Missouri Bar, Arnold has served since 1973 as Missouri's representative to the National Conference on Uniform State Laws, a 300-member body which promotes uniformity in state laws. Since 1980, Arnold has been a member of the American Law Institute, a group devoted to clarifying and simplifying the law through promulgation of restatements and codifications. He received an LL.B. from the University of Missouri-Columbia in 1961.

Missouri Bar president for 1988-89 will be Maurice B. Graham of Fredericktown, Mo. Graham is a partner in the firm of Schnapp, Graham and Reid, and received an AB in 1960 and a law degree in 1962. Graham is board certified in civil trial advocacy by the National Board of Trial Advocacy, and currently serves as vice president of the Missouri Bar Board of Governors.

The 16,000-member Missouri Bar is the official organization of all Missouri lawyers and judges. Established by rule of the Supreme Court in 1944, it is the successor to the original Missouri Bar Association, a voluntary organization of lawyers founded in 1880. Membership in the Missouri Bar is required of every lawyer who practices in Missouri and every judge of a state court.

Law Faculty

Susan D. Csaky published Part Five of "A Collection of Trials on Microfiche." She attended the annual meetings of the Mid-America Association of Law Libraries in St. Louis and the Association of American Law Schools in Los Angeles.

Peter N. Davis presented a speech on "Missouri Water Rights Legislation" for the Water Resources Seminar at the University of Missouri-Columbia Engineering College. He also spoke at the Soybean Growers and Irrigation Conference on "Missouri State Water Legislation Update." He has provided testimony on House Bill 207, Missouri Environmental Policy Bill, before the Missouri House committee on energy and environment and testimony on House Bill 238, Missouri Diffused Surface Water Use Bill, before the Missouri House agriculture committee. He has drafted revisions to faculty regulations for the Faculty Council concerning: dismissal of tenured faculty; proposed University of Missouri Faculty Misconduct Regulations; and Composition of University of Missouri-Columbia promotion and tenure committee. He currently is researching a final report on "The Common Law and State Statutes Related to Ground Water Quality Protection" for the Ground Water Protection Task Force, sponsored by Coalition for the Environment.

Carl H. Esbeck edited a book called "Religious Beliefs, Human Rights and the Moral Foundation of Western Democracy" to be published by the Missouri University Press. He also wrote a chapter for Pilgrim Press' book "Government Intervention in Religious Affairs" called "The Establishment Clause: Assuring the Independence of Churches in a Neutral State." He delivered a speech called "Tort Claims Involving Churches and Other Religious Organizations" before the Minnesota Conciliation Service and another speech on "First Amendment Defenses in Common Law Claims Against Churches and Pastors" at a seminar on the law affecting pastors and churches. He was elected chair of the law and religion section of the Association of American Law Schools.

David A. Fischer spoke about recent developments in Tort Law to a group of Missouri alumni in Joplin and presented the Torts portion of the Annual Survey of the Law program at the Missouri Bar meeting. He is currently writing a products liability casebook for West Publishing Company. His co-author is Professor William C. Powers, Jr. from the University of Texas School of Law. The book is scheduled for publication in 1988. He has written three recent articles entitled: "Defect Tests Conflict with Product Cases," published in "United States Law News"; "Rescue Doctrine In Strict Product Liability Cases," published in "Products & Services Compliance Report"; and, "Partial Settlements in Comparative Fault Cases", published in "Products and Services Compliance Report". He is Vice-Chair of the Tort Liability Study Committee. This is a special committee of the Torts and Insurance Practice Section of the ABA. Its purpose is to study and report on proposed changes in tort law. He is a member of the Editorial Board of the "Products & Services Compliance Report".

William B. Fisch attended the XII International Congress of Comparative Law in Australia. He presented a paper on "Judicial Use of Personal Knowledge." Along with James Devine, he has published a "Teachers Manual on Professional Responsibility."

William F. Fratcher has completed the 1986 supplement to "Scott on Trusts". He also has published Volumes I and IA, fourth edition, of "Scott on Trusts". He is researching a manuscript for the 1987 supplement to "Scott on Trusts". Volumes 2 and 2A of "Scott on Trusts" are now in page proof and Volume 3 is being researched by Professor Fratcher. He is Visiting Professor of Law, Western New England College School of Law in Springfield, Massachusetts for the 1986-87 year.

Timothy J. Heinsz is researching an article called "Judicial Review of Arbitration Awards." He presented a speech on "The Arbitration Process: Views of the Arbitrator" to the Missouri Bar Association, labor law section, and a speech on "How to Win an Arbitration" to the American Arbitration Association in Cincinnati. He has had the following arbitration awards published: Wiese Planning and Engineering Inc. and I.A.M. District 9, 86-2 ARB. para. 8375 (1986); Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Omaha Inc. and I.B.T., Local 554, 86-2 ARB para. 8423 (1986); Schnuck Distributing Co. and I.B.T., Local 688, 87-1 ARB para. 8028 (1986).

Edward H. Hunvald, Jr. is working on a substantive criminal law text for the West Missouri Practice Series. He participated as a criminal law professor in the Criminal Law Elections Office summer program and continues to chair the criminal law committee for the Multistate Bar Examination. He was a member of the committee that drafted the Missouri Approved Instructions-Criminal, third edition.

Michael Middleton is researching an article on "The Constitutional Tension Between Liberty and Equality: Race Consciousness in Governmental Decisionmaking," and an article on "Subjectivity and Title VII." He has given several speeches including: "Balancing the Scales: 200 Years After the Constitution, Future Designs for Educational Equality, A National Conference on School-Equality"; "Current Constitutional Issues" at the ACLU annual membership meeting; "Affirmative Action and the Constitutional Ideal of Equality" for the American Bar Association National Legal Research Education Leadership Seminar; and "Expert Witnessing" for the College of Engineering and School of Law workshop. He also participated as a panelist at the St. Louis Urban League conference on school desegregation and the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Journalism's legal issues panel.

Grant S. Nelson wrote a "Teacher's Manual to Cases and Materials on Equitable Remedies, Restitution and Damages" for West Publishing Co. He and Dale Whitman are preparing a new edition of their casebook for West Publishing Co. to be called "Cases and Materials on Real Estate Transfer, Finance and Development." Whitman and Nelson also are working on a second edition of their book called "Land Transactions and Finance" to be published by West in early 1988. During the past four months, Whitman and Nelson have conducted real estate finance Continuing Legal Education for the Arizona, Colorado and Minnesota bars. They will present a series of programs throughout Missouri later this year.

Nicolas Terry published an article on "Missouri's Malpractice Concord," 51 Mo. L. Rev. (Feb. 1987). He also published "Mary Carter Visits a Nursing Home" in Long-term Care Management. Other recent publications include: "The Malpractice Crisis in the United States: A Dispatch from the Trenches" 2 (5) Professional Negligence 145-50 (Sept./Oct. 1986); " 'Alas! Poor Yorick,' I Knew Him Ex-Utero: The Regulation of Embryo and Fetal Experimentation and Disposal in England and the United States," 39 Vand. L. Rev. 49-70 (1986); and "The Technical and Conceptual Flaws of Medical Malpractice Arbitration," 30 St. Louis U. L.J. 571-681 (1986). He currently is researching articles on "Malpractice in Longterm Care" to be published in Decisionmaking in Longterm Care; "Stricter Products Liability" to be published in the Missouri Law Review; and "Problems in Insurance Law," which he is writing with James Devine for West Publishing Co. He delivered a speech on "Malpractice Issues in Longterm Care" at Case Western University's Center on Aging and Health, and a speech on "Alternative Dispute Systems After the Malpractice Crisis" at the AALS Conference in Los Angeles.

Richard Tyler is researching an empirical study of merit regulations of securities in Missouri. He is the chair of the section on corporations, banking and business law for the Missouri Bar. He is working with a subcommittee of the Missouri Bar corporations committee to revise chapter 351 of the Missouri Revised Statutes. The committee is recommending a complete revision along the lines of the revised Model Business Corporation Act.

George I. Wallach will have an article on products liability in the Uniform Commercial Code Law Journal in September 1987. He currently is completing a two volume annotated U.C.C. form book for the West Missouri Practice Series. He presented a speech on products liability at the 20th annual program at the Uniform Commercial Code Institute in Kansas City, Mo. He also spoke to the Missouri Bar on recent developments in contract and commercial law.

James E. Westbrook has published a chapter on code enforcement in the second edition of "Missouri Local Government Law" for the Missouri Bar. He delivered a speech entitled "Lawyers and Alternative Dispute Resolution" to alumni of the University of Richmond School of Law.

Dale Whitman completed a manuscript for the third edition of "Real Estate Transfer, Finance and Development," with Professor Grant S. Nelson. He has given speeches at the alumni receptions in Kansas City and Joplin, Mo. He conducted a one-day course for the Missouri Banker's Association on recent developments in real estate finance law with Nelson.

Nicolas Terry

As a visiting faculty member from another country, Nicholas Terry has a quick reply to the inevitable question, "How do you like it here?"

"I stayed—that should tell you."

A witty answer is nothing unusual for Nicolas Terry from England, a visiting professor at the Law School this year. His first-year torts students say his sense of humor plays a big part in his classroom presentation, and Terry claims he will do anything it takes to maintain interest when teaching.

But maintaining interest should be no problem for Terry, an experienced lecturer. He has taught for the past 10 years in England and the United States, since 1980 at Saint Louis University School of Law in St. Louis. His subjects include torts, consumer and commercial law, insurance law, corporations and medical malpractice.

Terry cites health law and products liability as his favorite topics to teach, calling them "fascinating areas of the law" that contain a "wealth of material." In addition to first-year torts, Terry's teaching duties at Tate Hall include a medical malpractice seminar for third-year students.

Terry has written several books, law review articles and Missouri Bar Continuing Legal Education publications on tort law, products liability and medical malpractice in the United States and England.

Moseley Receives Thomas D. Cochran Award

Law School Alumnus Joe Moseley ('76) has received the Thomas D. Cochran Community Service Award for volunteer work outside the legal profession. Moseley is the national president of the Mizzou Alumni Association, president of the University's Quarterback Club, president elect of the Columbia Downtown Rotary, chairman emeritus of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and vice president of the Sigma Nu House Corp. He also serves on the board of directors of the Community Council on Child Abuse and the Rainbow House Children's Center, the Board of Governors of the Eye Research Foundation, and the advisory council for the Law Enforcement Training Institute. The Cochran Community Service Award is presented each year to a Missouri lawyer by the Young Lawyers section of the Missouri Bar Association.

Bob Bailey Returns to Law School

Robert G. Bailey ('79) resigned as municipal judge for the city of Columbia Feb. 16, 1987, to return to the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law as its assistant dean. Bailey had served as municipal judge for the past three and one-half years while also working part-time as the Law School's academic counselor. He will be primarily responsible for alumni and development relations.

Besides his Law School duties, Bailey is active in the community. He is president of the Boone County Industrial Development Authority, vice-president of the Enterprise Development Corporation, past chairman and board member of University of Missouri-Columbia's Higher Education Rescue Operation, president of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, a member of the United Way Board, a member of the Southwest Swim Club Board and a member of the Missouri Committee for the Humanities.

Bailey also serves as an arbitrator on the Federal Mediation and Conciliation, and American Arbitration Association Labor Arbitrator panels.

Smith Receives Pro Bono Award

Columbia attorney Robert C. Smith Jr., a 1949 School of Law graduate, received the Pro Bono Publico Award during the Missouri Bar's 107th annual meeting in late October. The award is presented annually to members of the Missouri Bar who have made significant contributions toward providing low cost or free legal assistance to economically disadvantaged people.

Since 1984, Smith has served as treasurer of the IOLTA Board of the Missouri Bar, which handles earnings of lawyer's trust funds. Fund earnings have supplied more than $200,000 toward providing legal services to low-income people.

Smith, senior partner in the law firm of Smith, Lewis and Beckett, believes that lawyers have a dual obligation to the public: to make the legal profession as efficient as possible and to help those who cannot afford legal assistance. Smith further emphasizes that during an era when government budget cuts affect legal aid to the poor, lawyers must assume a special responsibility on behalf of others.

In addition to an outstanding record of service to the legal profession, Smith also is active in political, community and University activities. He has served as a member of the Missouri House of Representatives from 1953-57, as mayor of the city of Columbia from 1961-63, and is a current curator of Stephens College and a trustee of the Missouri Law School Foundation.

Smith and his wife, Jean, have four children and two grandchildren.

Board of Advocates Happenings

School of Law students have fared well in regional and national trial competitions, negotiations tournaments and client counseling competitions. The programs, sponsored by the School of Law Board of Advocates, give students a chance to gain practical experience and use their legal skills.

Rebecca Milne took top honors in the American Bar Association-Law Student Division National Moot Court Tournament, and teamed with Brian Rosenthal and Tom Fritzen to advance to regional and national rounds.

Allen Parke and Ed Clausen won the local American Trial Lawyers Association Trial Competition in January, earning the right to represent Mizzou at the regionals, held in March at Minneapolis.

Two teams—Rob Ebert and Suzi Sebastian, and Gayle Grissum and Scott Watson—represented Mizzou at the ABA Regional Trial Competition at the University of Iowa. Grissum and Watson advanced to the quarter finals, where they were defeated by the tournament winner. As the top second-year team in the local competition, Anne McIntosh and Katherine Knocke will represent Mizzou at the regional next year.

In non-courtroom based competition, local winners in the ABA Negotiation Tournament, Elizabeth Tyndall and Gregg Groves, advanced to the regional competition in St. Paul, Minn. Jody Ross and Susan Cagann won the local round of the Client Interviewing and Counseling competition and represented University of Missouri-Columbia at the regionals in Lincoln, Neb.

From the Law Library: New Ways of Searching for a Law Journal Article

by Susan D. Csaky, professor of law and law librarian

Reminiscing about Law School writing assignments, most attorneys will recall the tedious task of finding the law review article that was on point. They perused numerous paper- and hard-bound volumes, scrutinized vague and unsatisfactory subject headings, and laboriously copied each reference in longhand. Yet, despite these efforts, the best article may have escaped attention because the journal in which it was published was not included in the Index to Legal Periodicals.

But now there are new ways to scan legal journals both manually and through computer-assisted search.

Manual searches have not changed much in the past decade. The Index to Legal Periodicals is still around but somewhat rejuvenated. A committee of experienced law librarians advises the H. W. Wilson Co. on what periodicals and new subject headings to include. Updating the paper copies of the Index is as laborious as before, but the Index is available on LEXIS and WESTLAW and through a number of gateways to databases such as DIALOG. WILSONLINE, the company's own automated system, is available in only a few law libraries.

A new legal periodical search tool, Current Law Index, probably accelerated the revamping of ILP. Developed by the Information Access Corp., the index provides access to more than 700 legal and law-related periodicals. Because of the number of journals covered, better bibliographic information under author and subject, and a more detailed indexing, the American Association of Law Libraries endorsed this index. The association continues to oversee it through one of its committees. The publication format is similar to that of ILP: monthly issues are cumulated into three-monthly and bound volumes. A companion microfilm publication, Legal Resources Index, provides monthly cumulative access to the legal periodical literature from 1980 on. The coverage is more extensive, providing references to articles in law reviews, legal newspapers and non-law periodicals. The microfilm reader used with the Legal Resources Index does not connect to a printer, so the user must make copious longhand notes. LRI is available, however, on both WESTLAW and LEXIS and through some of the gateways to databases.

But there are some problems with the computer availability of Index to Legal Periodicals and Legal Resources Index. First, they are costly. Users pay telecommunication and access charges, which average about $90 an hour. Second, these databases are not available on an educational discount; thus they cannot be used in our Law Library.

However, there is a new and convenient automated system for searching the legal periodical literature, legal newspapers and non-law journals for law-related articles. A product of Information Access Co., it uses an IBM PC, an HP Thinkjet printer and a 12-inch laser disk to access the company's various databases. The system is called Legal Infotrac.

Law libraries receive a new laser disk every month, which provides cumulative access to all materials mentioned above from 1980 on.

The system is so simple that even those who have not used a personal computer before can learn it within minutes. Also, because the database is on laser disk, there is no need to communicate with mainframe computers through telephone lines so there is no access or telecommunication charge. And there are no peak, off-peak, or down-times; the system is on at all times. In addition, searching is completed in a matter of seconds, and a tap on the "print" button provides immediate print-out of the references.

Of course, such a convenient system is not inexpensive. The yearly subscription to Legal Infotrac is more than $5,500. Veteran legal database searchers must also remember that this computerized tool is only an indexing system with Library of Congress-style subject headings, and is not responsive to Boolean queries.

The Law Library invites readers of the Transcript to try out our Legal Infotrac when visiting the Law School or by calling in reference questions to public services staff members Needra Jackson or Steve Lambson at (314) 882-9675 or (314) 882-9674.

Daily is New Academic Counselor

Melody Daily ('86) is serving as the Law School's academic advisor. She also is teaching three sections of advocacy and research.

This summer Daily will direct the Council on Legal Education Opportunity program and teach a writing class. This is the second year that the Law School will host the CLEO Regional Summer Institute.

CLEO provides about 35 minority and disadvantaged college graduates with a preview of law study and an opportunity to prove that they have the ability to succeed in law schools. The six-week summer course draws students from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri.

Since her graduation, Daily has worked with her husband, William J. Daily ('78), an attorney in Glasgow, Mo.

1986 Placement Statistics

Placement Office statistics for the class of 1986 indicate that 97 percent had secured employment as of Feb. 1, 1987. Only 1 percent were still seeking employment and 2 percent chose not to take the July Bar Exam. Some 57 percent are engaged in private practice. Other employment areas are: judicial clerkship, 15 percent; state and federal government, 14 percent; accounting, corporate and insurance, 5 percent; academic, 2 percent; and military, public interest, non-legal and non-traditional, 1 percent each.

National Association for Law Placement 1987-Midwest Conference

Karen Shelton, University of Missouri-Columbia Placement Adviser, and Nancy Corcoran, recruitment administrator for Thompson & Mitchell of St. Louis, coordinated the midwest regional conference of the National Association for Law Placement, which was held in late January. More than 150 representatives from law schools and law firms in a seven-state area attended the three-day conference held at the Adam's Mark Hotel in St. Louis.

Alumni Tom Watkins, ('71), and Tom Becker, ('74), and third-year student Scott Watson were among eight panelists who discussed "Recruiting Revisited." This was an insightful review of the recruitment process from a student/lawyer point of view.

In addition, several St. Louis and Kansas City firms hosted cocktail buffet receptions at the Adam's Mark and the Omni hotels. Each reception showcased the hosting city.

The National Association for Law Placement supports the interest of all professionals and organizations engaged in placement and recruitment activities. The association formulates and maintains standards and procedures to guide law schools and employers in placement and recruitment activities. Currently, 170 ABA-approved law schools are members.

The University of Missouri-Columbia Placement Office thanks the contributing firms and alumni for their support of the 1987 NALP Midwest Conference.

First-year Interviews Increase

First-year recruitment has increased significantly this past February with more than 10 legal employers scheduled for on-campus interviews. Of these 10, six major firms began a new first-year recruitment program for 1987.

Recruitment programs targeting first-year students reflect a nationwide trend as the larger metropolitan law firms seek to gain a competitive edge in the market for top students.

High salaries and escalating hiring structures are compelling reasons for firms to use a high-profile approach in recruitment.

Although interviewing has increased, the number of first-year students actually securing a summer clerkship remains relatively small when compared with the hiring of second-year law clerks. However, first-year interviewing provides law students an introduction to the legal job market, a chance to sharpen interview skills and the opportunity to begin evaluating long-term career goals.
